

Dining table designed by Børge Mogensen for Søborg
Denmark, 1950s

Strong constructions, simple lines, and natural materials characterize the aesthetic of Børge Mogensen, one of Denmark's most influential mid-century designers.

This model, known as the "Hunting Table", is one of Børge Mogensen's classics. He designed these robust, functional tables for country houses and everyday use. The brass stretchers are typical features used by Mogensen for extra stability and visual contrast.
