

Dining table designed by Kaare Klint for Rud Rasmussen, Denmark. 1930s.

Mahogany.

Stamped.

This model is one of the rarest and finest dining tables by the Danish master Kaare Klint. Carefully chosen woodgrain textures frame each part of the table's mahogany surface. The elegant table has an efficient extension mechanism; Klint implemented the "Dutch pull-out" system that allows for practical leaf storage underneath the table's surface.

The leaf extensions are cleverly built into the frame and can be pulled out from each end when needed. With its exquisite woodwork and carved details on all four legs, this table perfectly matches Klint's "Red Chairs". The table is in excellent condition with only minor signs of use, which is astonishing considering its age. A private Swedish collector previously owned it.
