

Dining table designed by Morten Höeg Larsen
Denmark, 2015

Ebonized wood with walnut and stained wood inlays.

Unique.

Laser-cut marquetry is the technique that allows for the abstract patterns of this table's remarkable surface. With elegant, slightly curved feet on very straight legs, the table's base was inspired by Chinese "Ming" tables; the simplicity of the lower part ensures that nothing distracts from the elaborate surface design.

Morten Höeg Larsen is one of only few contemporary

Danish designers working with marquetry. He uses advanced techniques and modern interpretations. Every design by Höeg Larsen is one-off and unique. This large table was commissioned by Modernity.
