

Vase designed by Erik Höglund
Sweden, 1970s

Glass.

Signed.

Erik Höglund started working for Boda when the company and the entire Swedish glass industry were expanding. As the world of glass was completely new to him, he wanted to learn as quickly as possible. So as not to disturb anyone at the glass furnace, he learned to blow and grind glass at night. Erik often stressed hard work as the key to success.

In 1954, Erik set out on his first scholarship abroad to Italy and Greece. He was more interested in sensuous Etruscan and Greco-Cretan culture than in classic lines and shapes. During the trip, he saw what real poverty was like, and his experiences in the war-torn lands of the Mediterranean made a strong impression on him.

Erik Höglund developed his own distinctive style in the Höglund received what was perhaps the most prestigious design award in the world, the Danish Lunning Prize. Soon enough, the sales
